Introducing S0urcoin

S0urcoin is a cutting edge blockchain asset for the S0ur community. As an ASA built into Algorand's decentralized, secure, and scalable Layer-1 protocol, S0urcoin takes advantage of the network's incredible transaction speed and nominal fees; an essential element of a currency meant to be transacted for fun as a joke. Oops, did I say joke? This is a very serious currency with infinite real-world applications, such as... uh...

For the remainder of this page I will list nonsensical unrelated jargon in an attempt to make you think this is a complicated and therefore valuable project.

We focus on decentralization, privacy, speed, scalability and real-world use, utilizing an energy efficient Proof of Stake protocol and a second-tier Masternode network to handle transactions that confirm in a second. These icons to the left are all totally unrelated but they look nice.

As a self-amending decentralized crypto-ledger that can instantiate any blockchain based ledger, the operations of a regular blockchain are implemented as a purely functional module abstracted into a shell responsible for network operations to provide construction lending software solution that delivers a comprehensive tool to manage your construction and development portfolio while demonstrating accurate information management to meet regulatory compliance standards.

Each institution is granted secure access to their unique project domain with a variety of standardized security profiles and supports meta upgrades: the protocols can evolve by amending their own code. It begins with a seed protocol defining a procedure for stakeholders to approve amendments to the protocol, including amendments to the voting procedure itself. The seed protocol is based on a pure proof-of-stake system and supports Turing complete smart contracts. This concludes this largely plagiarized absurd block of text that has no relevance whatsoever to S0urcoin.

Finally, here's more of that fancy cliché networking node stuff to remind you this is blockchain related.

Getting started with S0urcoin

To set yourself up to transact S0urcoin, you will need to create an Algorand wallet (use the official app or website), taking care to save your details securely. Members will be provided with a small one-time amount of Algorand upon request which is necessary to cover the minimal transaction fees. You will then select "Add new asset", and search for S0urcoin (ID: 217646687). Congratulations! You can now hold, send, and receive S0urcoin using that wallet address.

1000 S0urcoin will be distributed monthly to any YouTube channel members who request it through the member's Inner Circle discord channel. You must request it from S0ur there to receive the S0urcoin - this is a high-tech operation we're running here. In the launch window, current members are eligible to receive loyalty S0urcoin to retroactively cover all their previous months of membership.

Non-members can also freely send and receive S0urcoin, but will need to supply their own wallet with Algorand and find someone willing to trade their precious S0urcoin. Alternate reward sources for S0urcoin may be established in the future, but will be carefully considered and balanced to maintain the integrity of S0urcoin.

For further questions, please contact S0ur through the discord, which can be found at s0ur.tv.

Value Proposition

What's so great about your fiat currency anyway? What's it backed by, your trust in the government? Trusting the government is pretty cringe. When's the last time they did anything for you? S0ur makes middling gaming videos for you to enjoy, and now you can tokenize your support for this incredible entertainment by holding and trading S0urcoin. S0urcoin is the currency of the people; it is securely backed by some dude living in the woods, and an immutable fixed supply of coins steadily flowing into the economy through S0ur members.

Kohl's Cash. V-bucks. The Canadian dollar. These parody currencies have nothing on the limitless potential of S0urcoin.

At the time of launch there are no goods or services that accept or utilize S0urcoin. This means the value of S0urcoin can only increase as community adoption increases and more utility is inevitably created for this invaluable currency. This is truly a flawless investment*! This isn't some trash coin with a quadrillion tokens to trick you; there are only ~2.1b possible S0urcoin - the classic 32-bit signed integer standard used by the most trusted currencies. Don't regret letting this opportunity pass you by; be sure get in on the ground floor of the one story building that is S0urcoin.

*S0urcoin has no inherent investment value whatsoever. It it not hard to launch a token on an existing blockchain.

Use Cases

S0urcoin is an infinitely versatile currency that can adapt to fit the needs of the community.

- It is cool.

- The one and only highly collectible S0ur community currency. S0urcoin whales will receive S0ur's love and appreciation.

- Number go up = dopamine.

- It could be used to buy a car, if someone were selling a car for S0urcoin.

- S0ur could one day come up with official uses for S0urcoin, but probably won't because that sounds like a logistical headache and committing to maintaining something would take effort.
